Truckee PUD Completes Intertie, To Consider Rate-Hike Recommendations

Sierra Pacific Construction Company has completed their pipe line installation for Truckee Public Utility District thus providing tielines to enable the district to meet requirements for expansion of its distribution system and improvement in fire-flow capabilities. The fire-flow pumps and boosters are now in operation in the southern portion of the system, providing improved water pressure and better flow.

At it's regular meeting July 16, the District's Board heard recommendations from it's auditors who in their annual report urged immediate consideration of water-rate increases to offset losses in the operation of the water system as increased costs of system operation are the direct result of steadily rising costs and in the higher prices of materials used in system maintenance.

It was explained that unlike many public districts, Truckee Public Utility District does not levy a tax and the operation and maintenance of the water system is financed solely by revenue. Walters, Ball, and Hibdon, engineers engaged by the district to make a system study and prepare a report, submitted a complete revision of rules and regulations along with rate change proposals for the director's consideration.

The recommended changes in rules and regulations, among other things, provide for the adoption of revised connection and a new-facilities fee. If approved by the board there would be an increase in the present charge made for most new connections from $185.00 to $200.00 for average recommended by the district's engineers. Proposed changes in these rates will be taken to the fire district's board for their review and consideration.

Proposed general water service-rate changes would result in increased charges for service range from 20 per cent to about 40 per cent under the proposal. The average domestic charge would be increased as follows: The present minimum of $4.50 per month would become $6 per month. The quantity of water provided under the minimum would be increased from the present 4,000 gallons to 6,000 gallons.

The average domestic consumer now uses about 8,000 gallons of water each month during the year; this bill would, under the rate change, be $6.60 instead of $5.50 as it is at the present.

The manager was instructed to arrange for the drafting of an ordinance by the district's attorney, Paul Chamberlain, and to present the proposal and the proposed ordinance to the directors at a special meeting to be scheduled 7:30 p.m., July 30.

One Man's Opinion

By CARL BRIGGS

You can't go back, they always say. Progress in inevitable, so why fight it. History is a doomsday book, a record of the dead; it can never be resurrected.

Not always. There is a good chance that history will soon come to life at Lake Tahoe, a most colorful and exciting bit of visionary romance from out of the past — a steam railroad.

A company has been formed for the purpose of establishing a working narrow gauge railroad to provide steam car service on the south shore between various transportation terminals and tourist attractions.

It seems a little incongruous to be putting ancient museum pieces back into passenger service when major railroads are trying desperately to get out of it, but of course the difference is tourism. People who wouldn't be caught dead in a main line passenger coach will drive hundreds of miles and stand in line for half a day to ride briefly behind a chuffing Baldwin steam locomotive.

The efforts of this company will be watched with more than casual interest. You can almost hear the whistle.

Now then, except for a few missing bridges the old right-of-way between Truckee and Tahoe City seems to be in pretty good shape . . .

A dandy little book on the small and rather personable animals of the Lake Tahoe area has just been published titled "Lake Tahoe Mammals." It was written by Ken Legg, a California state park ranger, and artfully illustrated by Nils A. Westerland V. It is available from Big Trees Press, Box 194, Felton, California 95018, and sells for $1.50.

The book combines the voice of an astute observer of nature with the deft pen of an artist, according to brochure information, and I found that to be an accurate appraisal. Twenty-six inhabitants of the Tahoe area are described, from such exotic creatures as bats to the familiar chipmunk, covering habits, appearance, and locality, along with a full-page illustration.

Legg has published articles in "Nature Magazine," "Audubon Magazine," and the "Journal of the Cooper Ornithological Society."

They've outlawed skinny-dipping, and I think that marks some sort of milestone for Nevada County.

When country boys want to cool off on a hot day, the only thing to do is head for the ol' swimmin' hole. Everbody knows that small boys are very busy and have lots of things to do during a summer vacation day, so there is naturally no time to fetch bathing suits.

They'll have to now, and it seems kind of a shame. Perhaps it's progress and Nevada County just isn't a "country" area anymore, but one wonders in such cases just what constitutes public "outrage" and why, and the intensity and frequency of "outrage" that is required to effect passage of a county ordinance.

Nevada County Supervisors Ban Public Skinnydipping

Wandering around naked at the old swimming hole officially became illegal in Nevada county Tuesday.

Not that it was exactly legal before, but Dist. Atty. Harold Berliner found too many loopholes in existing laws to make them effective.

So, because a bigger bunch of people are swimming "au natural" in Sierra streams every weekend, he asked for a county ordinance requiring them to keep some clothes on.

The supervisors obliged by adopting an emergency ordinance which immediately prohibits disrobing "in the vicinity of any beach, stream, lake or reservoir."

The ordinance does allow disrobing in "an enclosure established for such purpose," which Berliner interpreted to include a car used for changing to a swim suit.

When the district attorney told the board he has "a problem with nude swimming," particularly at two locations, Supervisor William Thomas asked jokingly:

"That's a problem?"

And some members of the audience asked where the locations are, a question Berliner failed to answer.

In a more serious vein, he pointed out that families on picnic outings "have been disturbed" by suddenly seeing nudes romping down the beaches. Supervisor Gene Ricker said his daughters quit swimming at their favorite spots "people were always running around naked."

Thomas noted he has "heard a lot of comment by people who are outraged."

The new ordinance levies a maximum fine of $250 and a jail tern up to 90 days for violators.

One section of the ordinance stipulates that "clothing sufficient to conform to common standards of beach and swimming apparel shall be worn at all times."

Supervisor Lou Hartman wanted to know "if bikinis are commonly recognized apparel."

To which Berliner replied: "I think most of us recognize one when we see it. It might be they're not common enough."

Man Killed, Two Injured On Shortcut

Two men were injured and one man killed in a one car accident on the Truckee Shortcut in the pre-dawn darkness of July 19.

Injured were William Scott Little, 21 of San Jose, and Gary Ames Mathers, 23 of Los Altos, and pronounced dead at the scene was Barry David Pughe 22, of Sunnyvale, California.

According to Sergeant Dave Rickert of the Placer County Sheriff's Substation, the car a '66 Ford Mustang was traveling at excessive speed and hit a boulder on the left side of the road. Pughe was thrown from the vehicle and his body severed by a guy wire.

Truckee-Donner Chamber Establishes Its Goals

Truckee-Donner Chamber of Commerce is about to embark on a new phase of development for the community, according to the group's newly installed president, Carson White.

"We have work to do and all help possible is needed to successfully administer the improvements," White said.

"Success hinges on two important ingredients: Membership and participation. The membership drive is now on," he said. "We need money in order to function, and we need participation in our projects to make them work."

"Dues are the only means we have of raising funds," White explained. "Dues are due and payable now. Our goals are set, but the budget can only be ascertained when the membership drive is over. Your help is solicited. We want a brochure made for this area and we need new industry to enliven our progress."

"What does a chamber of commerce do? The best way to answer this question is to use an excerpt taken from the manager's report written by John Gallegos, manager of Nevada County Chamber of Commerce," White said. "We think their objectives parallel ours."

"The chamber's job is community development. This includes development of industry and trade, handling of civic activities, publicity and public relations for the community, and many others. The variety and scope of the community and the desire and ability of the chamber to carry them out. The chamber may aim to increase community payrolls, improve the buying power of its citizens, attract more customers to the trading and retail area, solve city zoning problems, improve the parking situation, and suggest the betterment of the licensing system. The chamber may also suggest changes and improvements in legislation of the local body, the county, state, and nation, in such matters as taxes, the freight rate structure and others. The chamber does not carry all this work alone, but often works closely with other organizations and public officials. Its aim is to help all members of the business community – firms and individuals alike."

White concluded his statement by announcing that the next meeting of the chamber will be Wednesday noon, August 14, at Donner Lake Lodge.

"Your officers expect to put in many hours of work," White stated. "All we ask is for your participation. Even if you are not in business, you can join as an individual for $10. Let's help the area grow!"

More Injuries Over Weekend

Unusually heavy traffic in the area during the weekend resulted in a series of accidents, two of which sent four people to the Tahoe Forest Hospital with major injuries.

The first occurred at 1:30 p.m. Saturday when an east bound car, driven by Ollie Mae Essary, 60, of Napa got out of control half a mile east of Floriston on Interstate 80, crashed into a guard rail and overturned, pinning the occupants inside.

Passing motorists righted the vehicle and released the driver and her passenger, Sandra Essary, 13. Both were taken to the Tahoe Forest Hospital by Truckee Ambulance with major injuries. The car was demolished.

In the second accident, also just east of Floriston Sunday at 3:30 p.m., Mrs. Euretta Cutler Thompson, 62, of Salinas, was injured when she apparently fell asleep and the vehicle ran off the road and was totally wrecked. The driver and her passenger, Mary Hazel, 12, were taken to the hospital with major injuries.

A number of other accidents were reported by the California Highway Patrol but none was of a serious nature.

The measure, Assembly Bill No. 1023, was returned to the Assembly for consideration of Senate changes. The bill would enact into California law main provisions of a Tahoe compact plan enacted last year by the Nevada legislature, while leaving intact the California Tahoe Regional Planning Agency created last year.

Also injured was Raymond Chapman, 29, of Incline Village, driver of the east-bound car. No reason was given by Washoe County Sheriff's deputies as cause of the accident, but an investigation was reportedly under way.

First Major Fire In Two Years Blackens Nearby Forest Acreage

The first major forest fire in this area for more than two years blackened more than 200 acres of second growth timber in the Carpenter Ridge district, seven miles northwest of Truckee Sunday before it was brought under control by some 300 men and equipment Sunday night.

The blaze swept over an area about a quarter of a mile wide and a mile long and was fanned toward Sagehen Creek by a brisk wind. Fortunately the wind died down late Sunday evening, giving the fire crews an opportunity to surround the blaze.

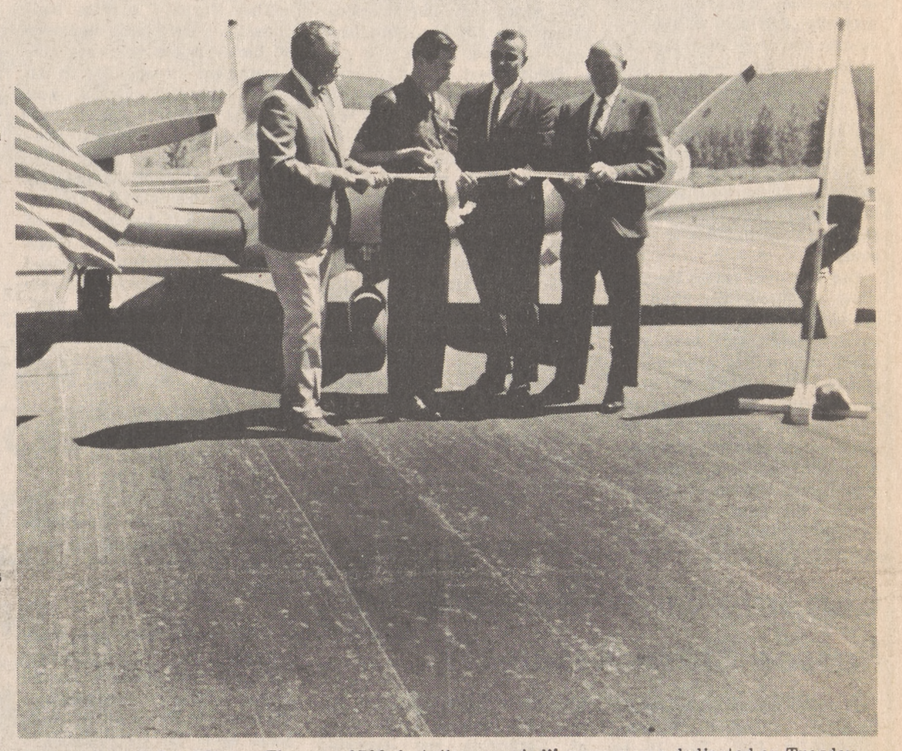

Forest service officials reported Sunday was one of the most hazardous fire days of the season and it was only through the fast-work of getting men and equipment on the scene that it was halted. Seven cats, five water wagons and eight planes were recruited along with the 300 men. Two crews were flown in from Oregon to supplement the "hot shot" inmate crews from Redding and Hobart Mills. An additional 60 men recruited in Marysville were added to the local suppression crews and hastily recruited men from various locations in this region.

Retardent-loaded planes stood by Monday and the helicopter was on a standby basis to spot any fresh outbreak of the blaze.

The area at Carpenter Ridge was being logged at the time of the fire, but officials were uncertain as to the cause and many Jeeps and hikers were in the area and the smallest spark might have ignited the tinder-dry grass and brush.

Henry Branagh, supervisor of the Tahoe National Forest with headquarters in Nevada City, arrived shortly after the fire started to assist local officials in forming fire lines and establish a temporary camp at Hobart Mills.

No homes or camps were endangered and no personnel injured.

SUNBEAMS

By WALTER M. BARRETT

Our congratulations to the City of Lafayette, down in Contra Costa County, the latest community to take advantage of the benefits offered through incorporation.

Not that Lafayette really needed incorporation. It is a community near metropolitan centers with all the facilities necessary to maintain beautiful homes and with a well appointed business district. It is a reasonably wealthy city and most of its residents have their work away from there.

Nevertheless, the progressive citizens realized the necessity for self-government and the advantages of being incorporated and passed the issue easily. They anticipate operating their city without a local tax and still develop additional facilities to make their city even more attractive and liveable.

* * *

We wonder sometimes why road crews make an effort to paint crosswalks for pedestrians on the streets. Perhaps one car in ten bothers to stop to let pedestrians cross. It is possible, of course, that the majority of drivers do not recognize the walks when they see them. We have watched children, as well as adults, stand for several minutes, often loaded down with bundles or heavy packages, while a string of cars goes by, the drivers apparently caring nothing of the law which provides that vehicles stop when a crosswalk is occupied. * * *

Did you ever notice the odor which fills your car when you are following a bus? If you haven't you better have your sense of smelling checked. It is nearly unbearable to be caught close behind a smelly bus, unable to pass and another motorist riding your bumper. Why couldn't a bus tailpipe extend into the air instead of into the front of following vehicles? That diesel exhaust is for the birds.

Assessment Levels Given For Nevada, Placer Counties

The average assessment level in Nevada County is 25.3 per cent of market value, second highest in the state, and in Placer County 22.5 per cent, compared to the statewide average of 22.7 per cent, the state's property tax administrative agency disclosed today.

The preliminary estimate is designed to assist property taxpayers in deciding whether to appeal their assessments, Member Paul R. Leake of the State Board of Equalization said.

Final percentages of market value will be issued August 23 after assessors have an opportunity to discuss their preliminary ratios with the Board.

Twenty-four counties came within a percentage point of the statewide average, "considered a bullseye on a moving target that dropped from 23.2 to 22.7 per cent this year," Leake said.

Last year 19 counties came within a percentage point of this objective.

The public announcement of preliminary percentages and the goal of 25 per cent of market value for all locally taxable property by 1971 are part of 1966 assessment reform legislation.

Leake said the preliminary statewide average dropped slightly, primarily because Los Angeles, which has 38 per cent of all taxable property in California, dropped from 24.7 per cent to 23.3 per cent on the average.

The Los Angeles assessment level was established this year by 1967 Board appraisals of taxable properties. Each county is appraised every third year. Economic indicators are used to estimate assessment percentages between appraisal surverys.

The county averages are a basic factor in $420 million in school equalization aid and in assessment appeals before local boards of equalization.

Car Stalls, Burns On Donner

Two men were picked up and questioned by officers in Kings Beach Wednesday night after a car which they had abandoned caught fire and was demolished on Donner grade at 5 p.m.

The incident at first appeared suspicious but after an explanation, the two were released.

The car, an old model Buick had apparently run out of fuel and was driven about 100 yards onto the west-bound Donner Lake interchange on Interstate 80. From some undetermined cause the vehicle caught fire, the blaze being spotted by Fire Control Officer Nelson Stone of the local forest service station who was flying over the area.

The forest service suppression crew and members of the Truckee volunteer fire department responded to the alarm and although a small area of grass in the vicinity burned a major fire was prevented.

Either before or immediately after the fire started, the two occupants left the scene and apparently hitch-hiked to Kings Beach. The vehicle was checked out by police and was not stolen and the two were not held.

Letters To The Editor

Editor, Sierra Sun:

I am writing this letter in hopes that you and readers of this newspaper might assist me in tracing the history of communities of Cherokee Indians in California.

I am an anthropologist and for several years have done research among Cherokee Indians in Oklahoma. From Indians living here, I have heard tales of Cherokee Indians who emigrated to California as early as 1849. On arrival, I am told, whole families and groups of Cherokees settled and lived together for many years. Perhaps these communities still exist. I have heard that Cherokees settled together somewhere in Trinity County, also on the coast of Oregon near the California border, and I have been told that as late as the 1940's a large Cherokee family reunion took place each summer somewhere near Oroville, exactly where I do not know.

There are records that show that from 1849 on through the 1850's, many Cherokees did join companies of prospectors headed for the California gold fields. I have never been able to find information on where these Cherokees settled, or what happened to them.

To complete a PhD dissertation, I would very much like to correspond with anyone who knows of a place in California where sizable numbers of Cherokee Indians used to live long ago, or still live today. I would particularly like to hear from anyone who is a descendant of people who emigrated from the Cherokee Nation before 1907.

I would consider it a great favor if you would publish this letter and if readers would write to me at the following address:

When Times Seem Rough . . .

By Ernie Riley

I have been carrying a little article around in my pocket for the past 12 years. When things seem a little rough and a dollar seems hard to get, reading the article makes one realize our many blessings — especially here in the Sierras:

"In 1923, a very important meeting was held at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago. Attending this meeting were nine of the world's most successful financiers. Those present were:

"The president of the largest independent steel company, president of the largest utility company, president of the largest gas company, greatest wheat speculator, president of the New York Stock Exchange, member of the president's cabinet, greatest 'bear' on Wall Street, head of the world's greatest monopoly, and the president of the Bank of International Settlements.

"Certainly we must admit that here were gathered a group of the world's most successful men. At least, men who had found the secret of 'making money.'

"Twenty-five years later, let's see where these men are:

"The president of the largest independent steel company, Charles Schwab, died a bankrupt and lived on borrowed money for five years before his death. The president of the greatest utility company, Samuel Insull, died a fugitive from justice and penniless in a foreign land. The president of the largest gas company, Howard Hopson, is now insane. The greatest wheat speculator, Arthur Cutten, died abroad involvent. The president of the New York Stock Exchange, Richard Whitney, was recently released from Sing Sing prison. The member of the president's cabinet, Albert Fall, was pardoned from prison so he could die at home. The greatest 'bear' on Wall Street, Jesse Livermore, died a suicide. The head of the greatest monopoly, Ivar Krueger, died a suicide. The president of the Bank of International Settlement, Leon Fraser, died a suicide.

"All of these men learned well the art of making money, but not one of them learned HOW TO LIVE."

A thought for today: Enemies are friends that don't understand us.

WHAT'S DOING?

MEET PATRICK O'GRADY - DESKMAN

Pat has been working for Pacific Telephone at Lake Tahoe for thirteen years. His present job is Deskman. His duties are to test trouble reports as they come in. He analyzes the type of trouble, and decides how it should be cleared. He also tests cable changes and splices that are being made on different jobs around the area..

He and his wife Carol live in Tahoe City. They have a girl nine years old and a boy six months.

Smokey the Bear reminds us to be extra careful this summer. A thing as small as a match . . . or a cigarette . . . or a spark from a campfire can destroy something as vast as a forest.

• • •

Our telephone greeting "Hello" has an interesting history. Originally, it was the German word "Holla," a command for a horse or a dog. And it's kind of interesting the way people in different countries answer the phone. Today, the Germans answer with their last name but the Greeks say "Embros" ("Go Ahead"), the Mexicans, "Bueno" ("Good Day"), the Italians, "Pronto" ("Ready"), and the Japanese use "Moshi Moshi" ("I'm Here"). But a cheerful "hello"—in any language—is still the best way to answer your home phone.

Chappie Snow-Removal Bill Passes State Assembly

Assemblyman Gene Chappie (R-Cool) reported the passage of SB 615, July 16, by the Assembly. Chappie's bill, which is co-authored by Senators Collier, Marler, and Teale provides an additional $300,000 for snow removal on county roads.

Speaking on this measure on the floor of the Assembly Chappie said, "under present law mountain counties in the State of California are allocated $700,000 for snow removal, but the burden of increased costs for removing snow on county roads is bankrupting county treasuries. In addition to providing more money for counties, this bill for the first time in the history of California allocates funds to cities for their snow removal problems."

Under the legislation, a county will compute its reimbursable snow costs, not to exceed an amount equal to 80 per cent of its annual average expenditures during the prior three years in excess of $5,000. As to the city allocation – a city will pay the first $5,000 of its snow removal costs and the State will then pay one-half of all expenditures in excess of $5,000.

Chappie further stated that "in addition to being a boon to the eleven counties of the sixth Assembly District this bill will be of particular benefit to the City of South Lake Tahoe which up to this time has been burdened with paying 100 per cent of the costs for snow removal.

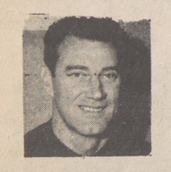

Monies to support the measure are appropriated through motor vehicle gas taxes and will not come out of the state general fund.

Lake Britton is normal, algae covering the water, cold, and fair fishing. The Pit River above Pit 5 Powerhouse is regulating, some moss, warming and fair to slow, the Scouts report from the scene. The fire danger remains critical!

The North Fork of the Feather River from Caribou to Howells will be the scene of the National Kayak races this weekend. The water will be controlled at about 1,200 second feet. It is clear and cold and fair fishing has been the report. Fly and bait fishermen are reported scoring heavily on native 8-10 inch trout in the Seneca Area.

Boat Accident Death Toll Reaches 53, Injuries 95

SACRAMENTO – The State Department of Harbors and Watercraft today released its boat accident figures for the first six months of 1968. The death toll was up to 53, injuries to 95, and property damage to $471,000, compared with the 38 deaths, 53 injuries and $352,000 damage reported for the first 6 months of 1967.

Of 266 accidents reported, 97 show vessels colliding with other vessels, 54 striking other objects or running aground, 59 capsizing, sinking or flooding, and 26 damaged from fire or explosion. Almost half the accidents occurred on tidal waters, with the remainder divided between the ocean and inland lakes and streams. The figures show mishaps involved a total of 362 vessels. Of these, 136 were open motorboats, 90 cabin cruisers, and 104 sailing vessels including auxiliaries.

Analysis of the individual reports indicated that over half of the accidents were attributable to operator fault, particularly failure to keep a proper lookout.

Faulty hull, machinery and other equipment accounted for about one-fourth of the total.

N. W. Sprow, Director of the Department, observed that a great number of the accidents could have been prevented. He said that common sense, supplemented by training and experience, should tell the operator to look where he is going, and also to check out his vessel and equipment before starting.

Arbutus Camp, Tahoe's Happy Mountain Mecca For Boys

MOST POPULAR ACTIVITY – Of all the many activities available to boys staying at Arbutus Camp in Tahoma, the most popular is mealtime; sunshine, exercise, fresh mountain air are prime contributors to healthy appetites; two full–time cooks prepare meals for 40 boys during summer–long season. —Sun Photo.

By Carl Briggs
Sun Editor

There are almost as many "camps" at Lake Tahoe as there are campers, and their variety seems endless, but there is only one resident camp for boys in the entire Tahoe area — Arbutus Camp, at Tahoma.

Founder and guiding hand of Arbutus Camp — and Arbutus Home for Boys in Los Gatos, the organization's home base — is Mrs. May McLean, a warm and motherly woman known to all as "Auntie May."

Arbutus Camp was founded in 1935 and has been established at its present location at Lake Tahoe since 1951.

With an average enrollment of 40 boys for the eight–week encampment, Arbutus offers a splendid variety of outdoor summer activities, including swimming in Lake Tahoe or in their own heated pool, archery, hiking, fishing, ping–pong, baseball, riflery, boating, water skiing, horseback riding, camp–craft, and indoor hobby classes for the infrequent rainy days.

Special events include trips to nearby museums, ghost towns, Indian reservations, historical monuments, fireworks displays, circuses, gold mines, and overnight camping.

Boys are divided into three groups: boot campers are from five to eight years; sleepy hollow boys from eight to 11; and daze–end boys from 11 to 14. There are counselors for every five to eight boys, with more concentrated care by women counselors for the boot campers. Arbutus is one of the very few resident camps anywhere that accepts boys in the five to eight age bracket, and "Auntie May" will tell you most emphatically that the youngest ones are very often the best campers of them all.

Second in command is program director Stan Johnson, a teacher from Campbell School District near Los Gatos. Jan Johnson, Stan's wife, is also on the staff and along with their three children the Johnson's are a large and permanent part of Arbutus Camp.

Two full–time cooks run the spotless kitchen and prepare hearty meals for heavy eaters. There is a full–time laundress, and one can imagine the task required to keep 40 boys in clean clothes. There is also a resident nurse with a fully–equipped but seldom used dispensary.

Most evenings there is a campfire, and the boys entertain themselves with songs and skits and the day invariably ends on a note of good fellowship.

Most parents will attest that raising one or two boys is a monumental task, but to "Auntie May" McLean each boy is an individual challenge, and a chance for her to contribute a little something to the happiness, the potential, and the character of a boy, and she has dedicated her life to it.

BROWNING THE BODIES – Large sundeck next to heated pool is popular spot for sunning and tanning; boys at Arbutus Camp swim daily, either in pool or in the lake, as one of the countless sports and activities in which they participate under the direction of counselors. –Sun Photo

ENTERTAINMENT – After–supper campfire provides opportunity for boys to perform; some are more talented than others, and this boy entertains friends by playing venerable pump organ on rustic camp stage. –Sun Photo.

SPORTS – Ping–pong is just one of many sports activities offered to boys at Arbutus Camp, others being baseball, archery, swimming, boating, fishing, water skiing; there is an indoor hobby shop for rainy days. –Sun Photo.

AUNTIE MAY – Mrs. May McLean founded Arbutus Camp For Boys in 1935 and has been both its business and inspirational leader ever since – as well as being warm–hearted "Auntie May" to all her boys. —Sun Photo.

Utilities Are Assessed In Placer, Nevada

Nevada County was notified last week that privately–owned public utility property has been assessed at $15,183,560 in 1968. This compared to the 1967 total of $15,388,270, a change of $204,710, or minus 1.33 per cent, according to the State Board of Equalization, which assesses these properties yearly for local taxation.

In Placer County the property has been assessed at $44,748,740 in 1968, as compared to the 1967 total of $45,285,800, a change of $537,060, or minus 1.19 per cent.

The tentative total for the 192 utilities was pegged at $4.7 billion, a gain of $45 million over last year.

The board noted that equalization and lower earnings for many major utilities accounted for minimal changes in some counties.

The board's value indicators include earnings, stock in debt, depreciation, reproduction costs and historical costs.

Utilities can appeal the assessments during the first two weeks in August. The board will set a final assessment on Aug. 19.

Planning Unit Meet Readied

Pat Boone, John Byner Continue At Nugget

The warm and wonderful ballads of Pat Boone and the hysterical wit of John Byner are presented twice nightly at John Ascuaga's Nugget through August 7.

The personable Pat Boone begins the show with immediate intimacy as he moves slowly through the audience from the rear of the Circus Room stopping at tables meeting people, shaking hands and crooning his tunes in a rich, sincere tone.

The handsome young singer's success had been achieved through his rare ability to move not only the younger generation, but a voice, personality and talent that encompasses the older set too. With an abundance of informality accentuating the standard tunes that started him on the road to popularity Boone swings and sways his way into the hearts of delighted audiences.

Boone stages a recording session with a member of the audience during the show and the results are riotous. Singing "Tiptoe through the Tulips" with a Circus Room Guest picked at random proves to be one of the high spots of the performance – the house rocks with laughter and applause.

Hilarious comedian John Byner cracks up vynical viewers with his hysterical brand of comedy. His subtle satirical, imaginative humore and his wide repitoire of impressions have won him acclaim on national television and Nugget Audiences seem to follow the suit in their appreciation.

The Dorothy Dorben Dancers and Singers, the Foster Edwards Orchestra, and the Nugget's own unique performers, Bertha and Tina the remarkable pachyderms, round out a great show for the entire family.

The second meeting of the newly organized North Shore division of TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) was held last Wednesday evening with an attendance of 8 women. The ladies reportedly are having a ball competing with each other to lose those pounds. Their activities have thus far included a visit to the South Shore group, "Lose to Win" Tops, and future plans are to meet each Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. in the Fireside Room of the Community Methodist Church in Kings Beach. LAKE ECHOES

BY BETHEL

The Women's Club of North Tahoe held their eighth annual luncheon and fashion show at the North Shore Club Wednesday for an enthusiastic capacity attendance. The "Champagne Flight to Fashion"—with Betty of "Be My Guest" commentating on the clothes and Jeanne Baxter of ATA Travel describing countries visited — was one of the most unusual and enjoyable the club has presented.

Nita Skarin, who is at the North Shore for the summer from Palm Desert, won the one-hundred-dollar prize given by the club. Models were all from Reno with the exceptions of Lake Tahoe's own Lynn Ashton who is top flight for any show.

Mrs. Ed Fike, wife of the Lt. Governor, was present with Barbara Phillips of Incline Village, president of the Republican Women's Club of Crystal Bay and Incline Village, and Beverly Brasher of the Tahoe Racquet Club.

Madame Irina Roublon of San Francisco attended the show as she and her husband, Constantine Belatelkin, are vacationing at Tahoe. Madame Roublon recently closed her maison de couture where she was a high fashion designer for many years. She plans to devote her time to painting and collecting — having a Russian bibelot and Easter egg collection over 300 years old, many by Faberge. Madame has a fascinating background, having escaped the Revolution in which she lost her family. Her husband is a consulting engineer in business and tennis is his hobby.

"Vive Les Girls" Reigns Supreme At Nevada Lodge

Paris has taken over North Lake Tahoe again this summer as the exciting "Vive Les Girls" Revue goes into its fifth big week at Nevada Lodge.

Produced by international showman Frederic Apcar, this production is an all-new potpourri of adult entertainment featuring some of the world's most dazzling showgirls, specialty acts, singers and dangers.

"Vive Les Girls" is staged nightly on Nevada Lodge's Topaz Room stage. Critics acclaim Apcar's new creation as offering the excitement of Parisian Follies, jolly fun of an American carnival, and the class of a continental night-club revue.

After the first few weeks, audiences and critics alike have hailed the 1968 "Vive Les Girls" as the most exciting ever. The revue is dynamic adult entertainment. From the opening fanfare to the closing finale, the Nevada Lodge stage is brilliantly alive with stunning women, lavishly costumed; spectacular production numbers, choreographed in the tradition of the French Follies Bergere; remarkable vocal talents in the persons of Grant Griffin and lovely Line Turner.

Griffin, a frequent guest on Joey Bishop's television show, is reminiscent of the late Mario Lanza. The magnetic quality of his lyric baritone, plus his captivating stage presence, has impressed audiences across the United States.

Line Turner is a sultry songstress from Australia. Her shimmering beauty and distinctive song stylings are a highlight of the show. The combined talents of Griffin and Miss Turner provide a firm platforms for the "Vive Les Girls" take-off . . . as the continuing thread through the show is a series of lavish production numbers featuring a bevy of startingly beautiful showgirls in creative production numbers.

Also featured roles are Comic, Beryl Williams, and Magician, Ken Alan. Exciting Joan Pelethorpe is the lead dancer, with Ron Watson as her male counterpart.

Frederic Apcar's "Vive Les Girls" will appear nightly throughout the summer at Nevada Lodge. In addition to the big revue, Nevada Lodge also presents continuous dusk-til-dawn lounge entertainment. Sharing the spotlight this week are The Three Cleffs and the Paul Curtis Show.

Today's Chuckle

Americans are people who feel rich because they charge each other so much for things.

Nugget Features Pat Boone Subtle Wit Of John Byner

The beautiful voice and warm personality of Pat Boone and the inimitable wit of John Byner, are featured nightly at John Ascuaga's Nugget beginning July 18, and continuing through August 7. Rowan, Martin and the "LAUGH-IN" gang close their three-week engagement in the Circus Room July 17.

A master of audience-entertainer communication, Boone presents some light, humorous numbers along with the straight, established tunes that made him famous, while moving slowly through the Circus Room, meeting people, shaking hands, and crooning his tunes.

The handsome young entertainer, though popular in recordings, television movies and personal appearances, bases his success on not just appealing to faddish rock styles, but also by encompassing the more mature generation that has come to identify Boone with clean-living, high moral principles, charity, and religious and patriotic activities.

A direct descendent of frontiersman Daniel Boone, Pat's entire career reflects the qualities of wholesomeness and steadfastness that have made his personal life as fine an example for young people as their parents could hope for.

Following the success of "Two Hearts, Two Kisses" came "Ain't That A Shame" (his first million seller), "Tutti Frutti," "I Almost Lost My Mind," "Friendly Persuasion," "Don't Forbid Me," and a string of others that only attest to his great talent and ability.

The comedy of John Byner has been called subtle, satirical, and imaginative, but mostly hysterical.

The Dorothy Dorben Singers and Dancers, Foster Edwards and his orchestra, Bertha and Tina, the Nugget's remarkable pachyderms trained by C.J. Madison and assisted by Stephanie all add to a most enjoyable show.

Applause And Laughter Fill Crystal Bay Club

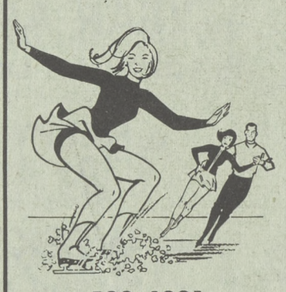

When you walk into North Lake Tahoe's glittering Crystal Bay Club, you're likely to hear either thunderous applause or uproarious laughter coming from the direction of the big Stage Lounge. Whichever sound of top entertainment strikes the ear depends on whether Frankie Fanelli is holding the audience spellbound with his golden voice, or the wild and wacky Jets are convulsing patrons with their special brand of side-splitting humor.

The irrepressible Jets, featuring rubber-faced Ronnie Cola, master guitarist Bobbie Geno and charming straight man Chuck Arnold, keep the audience in such a white heat of hilarity with their zany antics and really fresh and funny gags that every patron is practically exhausted with laughter by the end of the act. And this puts everyone in just the right mood for the beautiful and relaxing song stylings of Frankie Fanelli, whose voice seems to grow richer and more vibrant every season he appears at the Crystal Bay Club.

This double bill of explosive insanity and romantic relaxation provides Crystal Bay Club patrons with a well balanced evening of excellent entertainment that plays on practically every enjoyable human emotion. There's laughter, joy, nostalgia, romance, and sometimes even a hint of sadness to be experienced, as the Jets and Frankie Fanelli pour the finest in comedy and singing talent from the footlights of the Stage Lounge.

Also playing, in the Crystal Steak House and Crystal Dining Room, are Charles Gould and his Satin Strings, who stroll among the patrons as they enjoy the finest in food. Entertainment is featured nightly at the Crystal Bay Club, on the North Shore of Lake Tahoe.

Fabulous 'Champagne Flight To Fashion'

"A Champagne Flight to Fashion" left the North Shore Club on Wednesday, sponsored by the Women's Club of North Tahoe, and crewed by stewardess Betty Scoglund of "Be My Guest," KOLO TV, Reno, and Jeanne Baxter, tour guide from ATA Travel Service of Sparks.

Winging its way in commentary through exotic lands, professional models showed fashions to take you round the world. Showing ensembles ranging from bikinis to full-length minks were: Lynn Ashton of Incline and Johnnie Buchannon, Janice Carr, Betty Gelber, Sharon Klise, Georgia Lee and Stephanie Loren of Reno.

Prizes by the score were given away during the show with lucky tickets being chosen by Loni Yopp, granddaughter of Inez Jordan. Top gifts — a cascade of human hair, courtesy of Hazel Shindler of Reno — won by Mrs. John Duran of Sparks, and the coveted lei with money totaling $100 artfully woven into it went to Nita Skarin, an employe of the North Shore Club.

Clothing and luggage were courtesy of Paradise Fashions, Saks, Lester Conklin Furs, The Fashion, Lanz, and Shilling Luggage, all of Reno.

Fall styles were previewed, featuring the 'leather look,' both genuine and fake, the important boot, knits — the ultimate in travel-wear — and whiskey and grey, the important colors for fall.

Gerry Cross, general chairman of the event said, "We were so pleased with the sell-out crowd, and of course Betty always does a beautiful job. My goal was to make the $500 necessary for our scholarships."

Helping to make the event a success were chairmen Inez Jordan, liaison; Alice Hall, publicity; Peggy Gilfillan, money tree; Ruby Weaver, hospitality; and Louise Walter, printing. Music was provided by the John St. John trio, and decor and favors were provided by ATA Travel Service.

Cocktails Western Style - Via Hay Wagon

Cocktails at the Squaw Valley Inn began a fun summer evening on Saturday, when approximately thirty people, both locals and Bay Area visitors had an old-fashioned hay ride and barbecue dinner in Squaw Valley.

After boarding the horse-pulled hay wagon for the ride out to the meadow, there was singing, getting acquainted and a joking try at recruiting the services of a pretty guitar-playing girl sitting on a fence.

The hay ride and barbecue were handled by Cliff Ford of the Squaw Valley Stables, and the food, according to the amazing way in which it disappeared, was delicious. Steaks with all of the chuck-wagon trimmings were served and afterward the group gathered around the campfire to sing with Slim Lichliter and his guitar.

Seen around the campfire were Barbara and Jim Grogan of Squaw, Bill McComas of Dollar Point, Loren Aufdenkamp of San Francisco, Barbara and Tom Karney of Mill Valley and Alpine Meadows and Bary La-Rue of San Jose.

At cocktails were the Gardner Meins, the Bill Parsons, Ron Anderson and Ron DuPlanty of Trimont Land Company and Nino D'Elia, Ceaser Nancinas and Jack Eisenberger of the Inn.

Judy Thatcher Reports On Country Tour

Judy Thatcher, a resident of Agate Bay and president of the Women's Club of North Tahoe recently returned from a tour of the United States with her daughter Sherry, a social worker from Santa Rosa.

Judy, glowing with enthusiasm for all of the beauty she had seen and clutching a bulging scrapbook, told of visiting the caves at Carlsbad; the Grand Canyon; White Sands in New Mexico; the New Orleans Jazz festival; the Hemis Fair in San Antonio; Rosedown, a renovated plantation in Louisiana; the Jackson plantation in Nashville, Tenn.; Williamsburg; Jamestown; the impressive sights in Washington, D.C., and on quickly into New Hampshire to put Sherry on a plane for Shannon, Ireland.

While in the capital city, Judy visited Major General Jack E. Thomas, Assistant Chief of Staff for G-2—Intelligence in the Pentagon—an old family friend.

"If only people realized what a magnificent country we have and spent time visiting it, we would all be better citizens," Judy said. Apparently the Thatchers got a rich dose of American history on their two-month trip.

Special Unit Established For Wildlife

The Department of Fish and Game today announced creation of a Special Wildlife Investigations Unit to study and manage California's nongame wildlife.

The unit will be concerned with hawks and owls, furbearers such as the ringtail cat, kit fox and fisher, and such endangered species as the California condor and peregrine falcon.

California thus joins Arizona as one of the two states in the nation to extend their wildlife management programs to include species other than those valued for hunting.

The Special Wildlife Investigations is being headed by Howard Leach, formerly with the DFG's water projects branch and recipient of an American Motors Conservation Award in 1966 for his work leading to federal acquisition of San Luis Island National Wildlife Refuge. He will be assisted by Robert Mallette, who served on the DFG's upland game project until recently and who has represented DFG as coordinator of the annual California condor survey.

The special wildlife investigations program has been approved by the legislature and is included in the 1968-69 budget as a Pittman-Robertson Act federal aid project.

Special Wildlife Investigations, under the administration of the Wildlife Management Branch, will be involved with California's rare and endangered wildlife and shore and water birds associated with the state's rapidly disappearing bay and estuarine habits and inland marshlands.

Special emphasis will be placed on seeking the assistance of conservation organizations, sportsmen's groups, colleges and universities, and interested individuals, as well as federal and other state conservation agencies, in gathering much-needed factual knowledge concerning the status of nongame wildlife and their habitat.

Through such effort, the DFG feels management plans can be developed which will assure maintenance of all species of wildlife for their intrinsic and ecological values, as well as for their scientific and educational use.

Washoe Area Road Work Under Way

RENO — Work is to start this week on the $2,792,000 expressway through Washoe Valley.

The 5 1/2-mile relocated section of U.S. 395 will cut diagonally across the valley just west of Washoe Lake from near the north foot of Lakeview Hill to the Winter's Ranch property south of Washoe City.

The existing road will remain on the state system.

Rogers Construction Co. of Portland, Ore., is contractor on the job. George Gorton is resident engineer for Nevada Highway Department, assisted by Bob Milligan. Clarence Nelson is superintendent for the contractor.

Because the project is not on the present road, except at north and south connecting points, traffic interruptions are expected to be minor.

In the construction more than 640,000 cubic yards of excavation and almost 800,000 tons of gravel and selected borrow will be required. Six concrete structures will be installed. About 2 miles from the southern end of the project a bridge will be constructed to carry Bellevue Road over the four-laned Highway.

A cattle underpass at about the midpoint of the job will provide a service for ranchers.

Traffic over the road is expected to increase in 20 years from the present 6,700 per day to 14,000 daily.

Firm Wins Road Bids

SACRAMENTO — A. Teichert & Son, Inc., Sacramento, submitted the only bid — $69,643 — to the Division of Highways to place an epoxy seal coat and asphalt concrete surfacing to protect the decks of Highway 50 freeway bridge across Snow Road, about five miles east of Placerville, and the Interstate 80 Freeway bridges at Blue Canyon undercrossing and the Drum Forebay and Baxter overcrossings, about 2.2 and 8.6 miles west of Emigrant Gap in Placer County.

Donner Doings

By Vi White

Beautiful weather lately, but the calm water gets rippled just about 10 o'clock each morning and when it hits with a whoosh, and up come the white caps. Great for sailing though, but a bit rough for waterskiing and fishing.

* * *

Mrs. Roy Cook has had problems. While spending a vacation in a rented cabin, she and her children have experienced some difficulties.

First, the plumbing acted up and she was stuck waiting around for help, then during the night strange noises frightened the youngsters so much that they crawled in bed with her. Seems some mice were scampering between the walls and then one morning they discovered what one funny noise was. The pesky rodents had torn open some pillows in the living room and feathers were all over the place. Ah, life in the mountains. Ever try picking up feathers?

* * *

Another women still sold on the area though after a bad experience is Mrs. Sylvia Bangerter of Saratoga. Daven Morey was showing the Bangerter's a beautiful lakefront lot when she lost her footing and fell, breaking her ankle.

Her spirits were not broken though, and when Daven visited her in the hospital, they informed him that they still wanted that lot. Another satisfied customer from Swanson Realty.

* * *

Goldie from the Rowen and Martin show that was at the Nugget recently came over to Donner Beach and enjoyed the swim and sunbathing.

After we saw their hilarious performance one evening, we talked with the Jack Neugebauer's of Sparks. Remember they used to have the Donner Theater in Truckee? She is now with Dr. Nelson a former Truckeeite and Jack is a car salesman. They say Hi to all their friends and still get the Sierra Sun and read of all things, this column.

* * *

A fantastic feat was accomplished over the weekend at Donner Beach early Sunday evening. Eighteen year old Billy Stores of Reno sat poised way back on the beach ready to be dragged over the sand and out onto the water for a barefoot run. He made it too!

The Stroble's powerful inboard was wide open and shot him pulling hard on the rope 34 miles an hour shooting out tremendous plumes of water as he skimmed along.

After driving the boat, 15 1/2-year-old Virginia Stroble of Donner Lake decided to try too, first kicking off a ski then she slid over the sand and water for the longest run of all.

Fourteen year old Brad Jamieson, grandson of Florence and Bob who manage the beach each year, has successfully kicked off his ski and gone barefoot, but has yet to try a beach start. Wow! Congrats Billy and Jinny.

* * *

Doc Webber is still catching those trout out of the Truckee and printer Aldo Perino says he's doing alright too.

* * *

Bobbie and Dael Stricklin and little daughter have spent several weeks with their friends the Stroble's. They just can't keep away from Donner Lake, after having had the boat consession at the lodge for so many years.

Remember those impromptu crawfish parties?

Saturday, Roy Cleghorn of Squaw Valley brought over his scuba diving gear and proceeded to get crawfish near our pier and although he didn't get a big sack-full, he did find some interesting lures and says there is a beautiful submarine garden just west of us. Hope someday to see it too.

* * *

That Friday night buffet served at Donner Lake Lodge is attracting more and more people and is delicious.

Norma and "Russ" Russell joined us in a wet sail last Friday over rough water, then we took the power boat for a cruise down to dinner. Delightful. The Pete Haggard's of Dixon and the Les Hadley's of Donner Lake were partaking too.

* * *

Art Morey has announced that the Truckee-Donner Horsemen Association will be sponsoring another Wagon Train, not this year, but during Labor Day weekend of 1969.

The three-day ride will be part of the overall fun. A queen will be picked, one that must be able to have horsemanship, there will be a street dance, a barbecue and all sorts of activities, so don't forget, next year the Wagon Train will be revived again. Sure enjoyed the last one, even though horse and rider parted ways and I was stiff for a week after a fall.

George Wurst is holding riding classes during the summer at the corral at the east end of Donner Lake, guess I better get with it.

* * *

Son Charlie is expected back home this weekend after being released from the Army. He's driving from Virginia via Mt. Rushmore, Yellowstone, the Grand Tetons, Crater Lake, Chico and Donner Lake.

Bet the first thing he does is try out that new waterski he hopefully bought while on leave last March.

The twelve choice silver dollars to be given away during the Flower Show at the old Checking Station August 10, is being displayed in the Bank of America in Truckee.

One lady asked where the "Old Bug" station is. It's across from the football field on old Highway 40.

Former Henry J. Kaiser Estate Undergoing Extensive Restoration

WORK BREAK — Fred Cantun, Oakland, John Rulison, Sacramento; Rob Gehres, job foreman from Sacramento; Dennis Santos from El Cerrito and Mark Vatune of San Jose, relax after a hard day clearing land at Fleur du Lac. — Sun Photo

James Viso of Santa Clara, and his associates in an extensive program of restoration and rehabilitation at "Fleur du Lac" former Kaiser Estate on Tahoe's west shore, and are using young men from all over the United States to help in the back-breaking work.

Recruiting is informal, with fellows merely dropping in at the front gate, and those already hired notifying friends. The number varies, averaging about 20. An eight hour day of hard work is required, but Viso has made it clear that the fellows are on their own time schedules and can work their hours in any combination.

Quarters are pleasant for those wishing to live on the grounds, and three substantial meals a day are provided by Mrs. Margaret Johnson of Sunnyvale, California. Mrs. Johnson had come to visit her son (former foreman who had also fallen heir to the cooking) and true to her calling as a mother had succombed to his pleas for help. When, due to his wife's illness her son had to leave, Mrs. Johnson stayed on.

Present foreman Rob Gehres said, "Mrs. Johnson is a fantastic cook," and agreement was voiced by everyone present. On Wednesday, the dinner meal consisted of beef stroganoff, noodles, vegtables, cookies and milk. Supplies are purchased by the case with one breakfast necessitating three to four dozen eggs.

Bearded Foreman, Rob Gehres of Sacramento has been on the job for two months and is in charge of seeing that Mr. Viso's orders are carried out in the best and fastest manner. Rob hopes to be a medical doctor.

Max Bauer, formerly of Austria is the decorator and painter and works with Mrs. Fess Parker the interior designer. Skiing is another of Bauer's loves and he was assitant ski school director for two seasons at Heavenly Valley.

Dennis Santos of El Cerrito is the tallest of the youths, standing 6' 5-1/2". He will return to Contra Costa College in the fall as will Jim Puzey.

The youngest worker is Mark Vatuone, 13 of San Jose. Mark's father is one of the partners of Viso Enterprises.

Richard Schwarz of Oakland will be going to Cal State majoring in English with an eye on teaching the subject in Germany. Richard spent three and a half years in West Germany on duty with the Air Force. Bruce Duncan of Hayward just returned from 13 months with the 25th Division of the Army at Long Binh in Vietnam. Bruce will be going to school on the GI Bill majoring in social sciences.

For five years John Garvey has been in the education division of Reader's Digest, which leaves his summers free for other pursuits. Of course, with five children, three in college and two in high school, his primary pursuit is probably after money. Two of his daughters are touring Europe this summer, and one of them will go to Marymount on a scholorship this fall. Prior to working for Reader's Digest, Garvey was associated with Look magazine.

Jeff Hahn and John Rulison will return to high school in Sacramento in the fall, and all that Fred Cantun of Oakland would say is that he had just arrived.

TIME OUT FOR CHOW — Fellows working at the former Kaiser Estate "Fleur du Lac" take time out from their busy schedule to partake of Mrs. Margaret Johnson's delicious beef stroganoff. Approximately 20 young men are fed at each meal. — Sun Photo

The following court cases were heard by Judge F.W. Wilson last week in Truckee Judicial Court:

Alton Sweet, San Jose, found guilty of speeding; fined $23.

William Marshall, Weed, pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding and driving with a revoked license; fined $312 and sentenced to five days in Nevada County Jail.

Nevada Elks Aid Children

RENO — Speech handicapped school children in rural Nevada areas were assured of help in the coming year when the Nevada State Elks Association agreed to provide a $21,683 budget for two mobile speech therapists for the period 1968-69.

Mobile speech therapy program is the major project of the Nevada State Elks Association. Elks throughout the state contribute to the support of this program, which has been under way for more than a decade.

One therapist will be stationed in Minden-Gardnerville for three months, also serving Nevada communities at Lake Tahoe from there, Yerington two months, and Hawthorne for four months, serving Schurz, Babbitt, Mina, Gabbs and Tonopah as well as Hawthorne from there.

Conservationists Set Symposium

Four of the best known water–oriented conservationists in California and the nation have accepted invitations to speak at the Lewiston Conservation and Multiple Use Symposium (CAMPUS) Aug. 12–23.

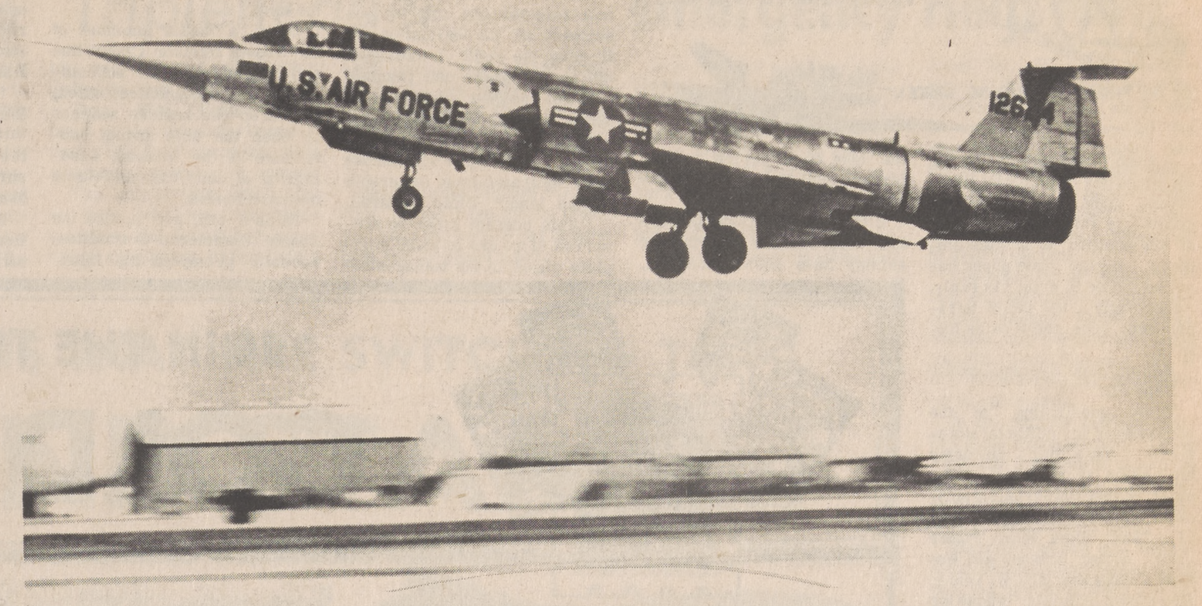

Speakers accepting invitations from Dean William Murison, head of the Humboldt State College extension service, are:

Floyd E. Dominy, United States commissioner of reclamation, who will discuss "Creating Natural Beauty";

Norman Livermore, director of the California State Resources Agency, who will talk about environmental planning with respect to public works projects.

Robert J. Pafford Jr., regional director of the Bureau of Reclamation. His talk will cover federal water in the West; and William Gianelli, state director of water resources, who will discuss the state water project.

FIRST F104 STARFIGHTER -- released for public display was an aircraft donated by the United States Air Force to the city of Sacramento and placed on permanent display at The California Exposition last week. The aircraft, a high–altitude, all–weather interceptor with a top speed of more than 1,400 miles per hour, is dramatically mounted on a pedestal just inside Cal Expo's east gate near the new racetrack grandstand.

Scientific Research Hurt By Budget Cut

BY PROF. WENDELL MORDY
Desert Research Institute
University of Nevada

The proposed $6 billion cut in national budget will very materially reduce the amount of money for scientific research and development in the U.S. during the current fiscal year and in all probability, until the Vietnamese war is settled.

While at first thought it seems appropriate that the development of new things for better living is the activity we can best do without in times of national emergency, there are many unfortunate results of such reductions which are easily overlooked.

Much of the money for science and technology is supporting the development of new scientists in America and the employment of young scientists in their first research work.

Removing the opportunity to do research work can easily involve these young people in other occupations and lose them for the remainder of their careers to less productive pursuits.

Science, like piano playing, mathematics and athletics, requires daily practice, and those who cease to practice for even relatively short periods of time often do not return to research.

Thus, many of our leading educators are concerned about the possible loss of a great potential for economic development in America today.

A very large percentage of today's industries are new—not even conceived of a decade ago. New products, new activities, and new goals which grow out of research and development have become the largest source of bread and butter in America today, exceeding the steel or automobile industries in total expenditures.

Recently, 50 presidents of the leading universities on the East Coast met at the invitation of the New York Academy of Sciences to petition the U.S. government to consider the dangers of such substantial cuts in the budget for science and technology.

This year the National Science Foundation faces a cut much greater than would be proportional to the cut in the national budget, approaching 25 per cent of its previous year's funds.

Most of this money goes to America's university science departments.

Thus the cut is effecting America's greatest resource — our young people — at the same time that Vietnam is taking its tragic toll of lives, suffering and and interrupted careers.

Adviser To Join Area Scout Camp

SACRAMENTO — Ishihara Kenichi, a 29–year–old bank clerk from Naha, Okinawa, is the Golden Empire Council's first International Camp staff member.

Kenichi, a college graduate, will serve as a program adviser at Camp Harvey West until Aug. 17. He will then take part in a "hospitality" tour of the U.S. with other international scouts and leaders.

The scholarship program is sponsored jointly by J. C. Penny Co. and Boy Scouts of America.

Scouters from another country can make a valuable contribution to the scout program. The sight of a different type of Scout uniform, the sound of a different voice and accent, singing in another language around a campfire; these and many other every day occurences will make a lasting impression on a Boy Scout in camp, officials report.

Auto Pollution Seen Sliced

NEW YORK — Oil and automotive industry scientists predict that they will eventually be able to reduce pollution from cars by more than 90 per cent, although producing the automobile "hardware" to do the job may be costly.

Right now, according to the magazine, "Petroleum Today," cars that come off the Detroit assembly lines have equipment that reduces the output of two of the major pollutants — carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons — by as much as 70 per cent.

Scientists and engineers are bringing their skill and imagination to bear on the complex and mysterious phenomenon of automotive air pollution. And their tools, the publication says, range from expensive computers to their own noses. (A good sniff sometimes will tell you more about pollution than the most intricate man–made apparatus.)

In the last decade, oil companies have spent over $200 million on air pollution research, the magazine reports.

The automobile industry has likewise spent millions seeking ways to reduce the amount of pollution from cars.

A $10–million research program with 29 separate project areas designed to fill many of the remaining gaps in man's understanding of automotive air pollution is highlighted in the publication.

"Science still cannot tell us at exactly what point various pollutants are harmful," the magazine notes. "We know that certain substances are toxic when breathed in unusually large amounts in a lab.

But what happens when these same pollutants are diffused in smaller amounts among the other substances in the air we breathe? The answer to date: we simply don't know."

A panel of "sniffers" — people with noses so sensitive they can detect even the subtlest odors — will attempt to identify the components that produce the unpleasant smell of diesel fumes as part of one study currently under way.

On the other hand, computer methods will be used to assemble data produced by various research groups around the country on carbon monoxide and how low–level exposure affects human beings, "Petroleum Today" reports.

A Reno newspaper challenged the propriety of editorial statements made in last week's column by this writer because of his position as a state employe, but the same paper has so far failed to print his reply. Accordingly, the reply is reproduced here and it is as follows:

Editor, Reno Evening Gazette
Dear Sir:

Your questioning of the propriety of my editorial statements regarding firearms legislation is amazing, considering that you obviously solicited statements (Gazette, July 11, 1968) from Reno Police Chief Elmer Briscoe and Washoe County Sheriff C.W. Young, also public officials "whose job it is not to make but to administer the law."

These fine officers deal with the relatively small criminal element of the population who misuse firearms, but my own agency is concerned with tens of thousands of legitimate gun owners and users.

I have followed your articles on proposed gun legislation in the Gazette since this issue became front page news some months ago, and I have yet to see an explanation to the target shooters and sportsmen of Nevada of the significance, to them, of the provisions of the various proposed gun laws.

Nor have I seen in your paper an analysis, with reference to sport shooters and hunters, of the provisions of the various firearms control laws. In the absence of such analysis by established law news media, our efforts must be regarded as a much needed service.

Be assured that this friendly old warden will continue to inform our sportsmen of matters that may affect the future of their sport and he will, on occasion, take a firm stand on issues that are adverse to the interests of the hunters and fishermen whom he serves.

Burton Lauckhart, chief of the game division of the Washington State Game Department, once attempted to explain that wildlife is totally dependent on its habitat, as follows:

"Suppose you have a strip of brush and weeds along the back edge of your yard in which a pair of song sparrows are nesting. Suppose you take your shotgun and shoot them! Kill them outright!

"How do your neighbors react? — righteous indignation probably. But as a matter of fact the surplus sparrow population will fill that vacuum very quickly.

You have not actually reduced that sparrow population at all. As long as the habitat exists nature fills it.

"Suppose instead, that you had extended your lawn area with a bulldozer and cultivator and ripped out the brush and weeds.

Now you have destroyed the habitat and permantly reduced the sparrow population by one nesting pair.

"But the neighbor's reaction?

They probably won't even raise an eyebrow; maybe even commend you for your 'neater' yard!"

And so it is, when we drain a marsh to make farm land or when we build highways, homes, condominiums and super markets on deer range. Our neighbors commend us for "neater yards" and they do not count the cost, except in dollars.

"How many fewer ducks will fly south next year because a hard working farmer "extended his lawn area" by draining and filling in a low marshy spot on the south forty of his farm?

How many deer will not be with us ever again, because of the expanding lawns composed of new homes and stores under construction in the Sierras near Tahoe right now?

FIELD NOTES

Back in March of 1967 we told you of planting opossum shrimp in Tahoe, as a link in the fish food chain of Tahoe's sterile waters, and we told you that we'd try trawling for them at a later date to find whether they managed to survive and reproduce.

Well, a couple of our FOGWs along with two of California's gave it a try this last Monday and, wonders of wonders, they picked up 123 shrimp with one pass just off Tahoe Keys in 200 to 300 feet of water.

This is important news and it may result in much improved future fishing at Tahoe.

The increased food supply in the lake could permit a much larger population of fish to live there.

It is indeed good news to learn that these earlier plantings of shrimp have been successful.

Sen. Bible: States Should Regulate Wildlife

RENO — Sen. Alan Bible has renewed his call for enactment of his legislation affirming the right of individual states to manage and regulate fish and resident wildlife on all lands, federal and non-federal.

"By law and centuries of tradition, ownership of wildlife has been separated from ownership of the land," Bible declared.

"This concept must be preserved if we are to avoid complete chaos in the management of fish and game resources," he said.

Bible, a senior member of the Senate Interior Committee and chairman of the subcommittee on Parks and Recreation, delivered the keynote address to open the 48th annual conference of the Western Association of State Fish and Game commissioners.

Bible's bill, now before the Senate Commerce Committee, recently prompted the Interior Department to set forth new administrative guidelines recognizing the autonomy of the states in regulating hunting and fishing on all public lands.

"I am the first to congratulate the Interior agency for taking this important step, but I am also the first to insist that these assurances be written into law," Nevada's senior senator said.

Bible emphasized his legislation is not intended to overturn the authority of the National Park Service to prohibit public hunting on park lands, nor to repeal federal laws protecting the bald eagle and other rare and endangered species.

"But," he added, "it would require the Federal Government to observe state laws applying to wildlife. Particularly, it would prohibit indiscriminate abuses of state regulations stipulating conditions under which wildlife may be killed as a means of reducing herds.

"Such abuses all too often have been committed by federal authorities in the past. Recent examples include the killing of elk in Yellowstone National Park and the taking of deer in Carlsbad Caverns National Park," he said.

Funds Granted Tahoe Paradise

WASHINGTON — Congressman Harold Johnson, representing El Dorado County, has announced approval of a $6,900 grant to the Tahoe Paradise College under the Higher Education Act of 1965. Johnson said that the money would be used for educational opportunity grants to students at the college to assist them to remain in school during the coming school year.

Even Izaak Walton Might Have A Tough Time Trying To Act Cool With This 'Fisherman's Tripleheader'

Having a big bass on your line, splashing, jumping and running in all directions at once is a thrilling experience. But when three anglers in the same boat book into huge Florida bass and there are three monsters on the loose – it's almost too much for a fisherman's nervous system and his fishing tackle.

Not even Izaak Walton, himself, could keep his cool at a time like this:

A Fort Worth, Tex., family had the fishing thrill of a lifetime when first Mrs. George S. Charles hooked a 9 1/2-pound bigmouth.

Before her husband could come to her assistance, he was tied to an even bigger fish.

Roy Dale, their 14-year old son, grabbed the dip net to help out, but had to make a dive to save his Zebco Model 33 reel and rod from being pulled into Jackson Lake.

The tremendous battle raged for almost 15 minutes. Water boiled and swirled and the three Texans tried desperately to tire the fish and get them within range of the dip net.

Finally, Mrs. Charles guided her fish near the boat and husband George nervously managed a one-handed stab with the net and boated the fish. All the while his fish, the biggest of the lot, was thumping and bumping under the boat.

Then, Mrs. Charles took a hand at the net and slipped it under Roy Dale's bass that later weighed 9 pounds 2 ounces.

The unbelievable triple play on huge bass was two-thirds complete and almost had an unhappy conclusion, by Roy Dale's swift scoop and a deft hand saved it. He stabbed the net three feet under the water and eased the bass into the netting just as the hood came free.

Shaky hands slipped the De-Liar on the huge fish's lower jaw and the needle bar nudged past the 13-pound mark.

'Ailing Yachts' Have Emergency Help Now

Now there's a diagnostic clinic for yachts. On the coastal inlet of Orange County, Calif., known as Huntington Harbour, where $100,000 homes are side by side and 30-foot power cruisers are parked out back, Bob Bahner operates one of the boating industry's unique business.

Bahner pumps gasoline and diesel oil. He tunes boat engines. If a weekend mariner breaks down at sea, all he has to so is call Bahner on the ship-to-shore radiophone, and the ex-Marine will power to the rescue in his own private yacht with a portable electronic engine analyzer and a generator to give it current.

The boat dock serves the marina, and, facing the opposite direction, Bahner Shell Service handles automobile traffic along Pacific Coast Highway, one of the world's most heavily traveled scenic routes.

In the service station, using the same Autoscan 3000 Engine Analyzer that goes to sea and is the workhouse of the boat diagnostic clinic, Bahner specializes in automotive tuneup.

Marriage of the two mechanical trouble-shooting services, one for pleasure craft and the other for transportation cars, was made possible because the transistorized engine analyzer is light and has a small enough power requirement that it can be run by a 300-watt Honda portable generator.

A few simple modifications on the Autoscan device make it easy to roll back and forth between gas station and boat dock, and the analyzer-generator combination is easy to carry out to sea in an emergency.

Bahner created the business out of his belief that good boat engine tuneup and repair was a profitable service.

He was operating another station in the inland community of Tustin, Calif., from which he dispatched a mobile van to marinas within a 40-mile radius, until he acquired the Shell station in April, 1967.

"The van and equipment we used were cumbersome," Bahner said.

"Nothing we had in electronic gear could be operated on a generator that put out less than 600 watts. So we couldn't be independent of power lines," he said.

"Travel time from Tustin was costly, and the equipment was so heavy that it took two men on every job. I kept the mobile van going simple because there was a demand.

"One day I was driving along the highway, coming back from a job in Long Beach, when I spotted the 'for lease' sign in Sunset Beach. I grabbed the opportunity immediately."

Customers who bring their cars in pay $3.50 for the privilege of having their engines examined scientifically by Bahner's space age equipment. Boaters pay a $7.50 premium for dockside Autoscan analysis.

If they break down at sea and need Bahner's help to get under way, they pay $7.50 plus $10 an hour for the time involved.

Bahner has made emergency boat calls 10 times in the last three months, and he believes this unique service will grow in demand druing the summer. Demand for boat tune-up is heavy enough now that customers need to make appointments.

Soon to be added to Bahner's marina facility is a new dock with special tie-down that will be used as a dynamometer.

"Water makes a natural dyno," he said.

"All we have to do is tie down the boat securely enough, and we can run it at almost any speed to make tests. The prop tuning in the water gives us exact running conditions," he said.

The retired USMC major turned down three offers of well paying positions in the aerospace industry when he hung up his dress blues, deciding to use his engineering background in the service of cars and boats, rather than to "get in the government contract rat race."

A dive bomber pilot in World War II and air controller for ground troops during the Korean War, Bahner was attached to the Bureau of Naval Weapons at the Pentagon when he retired and moved to Tustin 10 years ago.

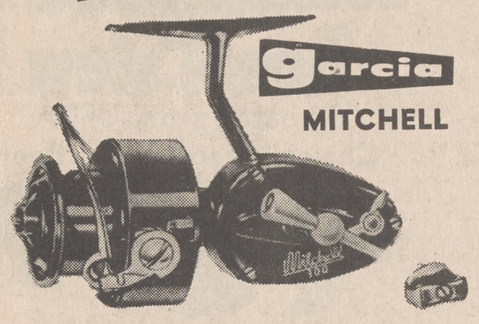

Even though the nine miles of waterway that comprise the Huntington Harbour marina is not completed yet, his boat dock rivals the automobile side of the business for volume.

Bahner said the rule of thumb is 1,800 small craft for every successful boat dock, but while there are only about 1,000 boats now in the marina he is already outpumping another dealer in Long Beach who has more than enough boats to support that gas dock.

Highway Patrol Exams Set

SACRAMENTO — "It wasn't easy, but the 16 weeks I trained to be an officer at the California Highway Patrol Academy in Sacramento were among the most satisfying and interesting I have ever spent."

This was the comment of a recent graduate of the CHP Academy who received 16 weeks of training in the vehicle code, accident investigation, first aid, techniques of arrest, psychology and other subjects, according to H. W. Sullivan, commissioner.

He learned how to drive a car under emergency conditions, how to fire a gun, how to take pictures, how to operate a radio, and how to defend himself.

"It wasn't easy, but it was satisfying."

That's what one officer thinks of the training he received. What kind of person is he?

If he is a typical California Highway Patrolman he is able to adapt to differing situations, he likes and understands people, he is able to assume responsibility, he is mature and able to discipline himself, and above all he must believe in and be able to convince others of the need for traffic safety.

Men who fit the above description may be able to qualify to become a California Highway Patrol cadet and attend the CHP Academy in Sacramento.

Candidates must be between 21 and 31 years of age, in good physical condition, a high school graduate or the equivalent and at least five feet nine inches tall but no taller than six feet six inches.

The next civil service examination will be given Aug. 24. Applications to take the exam must be in by Aug. 2. Application forms can be obtained at any CHP, California State Employment Service, Department of Motor Vehicles, or State Personnel Board office.

Travis AFB Passengers —Going Up

TRAVIS AFB, Calif.—Travis Air Force Base handled 1,222,967 passengers during the fiscal year ending in June—ten thousand more per month than any time in the base's 25-year history.

Despite the activation of other Military Airlift Command bases during the period, the year end summary reestablished this northern California base's standing as the principal aerial gateway to Southeast Asia.

The fiscal 1968 total topped last year's record high by 145 thousand and raised the monthly airlift average through Travis terminal to 100 thousand.

Incoming and outgoing passengers during June totaled 115,735 troops and government connected individuals, second highest number in the past 12 months.

Cargo airlift handled at Travis declined slightly from 245,356 tons for fiscal year 1967 to 242,406 tons in the year just ended. The June total of 18,347 tons compared to a monthly average for the year of about 20 thousand tons.

A report prepared by the base management analysis office and the 60th Aerial Port Squadron showed that the volume of traffic through the Travis terminal has increased more than 125 per cent since the Vietnam buildup began in 1964.

June of this year was also a banner month in a "Lead the Force" endurance flying program conducted by the Travis 60th Military Airlift Wing. One of two C141 Starlifters engaged in a continuous shuttle between the base and Southeast Asia destinations, number 8075, achieved an average of 17.1 hours in the air per day.

This was the highest day-use rate to be achieved by a Military Airlift Command aircraft.

Both types of aircraft operated by the wing attained the second highest overall reliability rate recorded during the year.

Average overseas and en-route departure reliability was 90 per cent for the wing's four squadrons of C141 and C-133 transport planes.

University Of Nevada Head Named To Commemoration Committee

RENO — President N. Edd Miller of the University of Nevada hs been named to a blue-ribbon committee of educators, civic leaders and businessmen to commemorate the 10th anniversary of the National Defense Education Act.

Known as the National Citizens Committee for NDEA, the group is seeking to create sufficient public and congressional awareness of the achievement under the education act to protect it from major budget cuts.

The NDEA has provided loan assistance for college students and science equipment for schools over the past decade. It also provides substantial financial incentives for college graduates to enter the teaching profession.

Dr. Miller joins eight other university presidents on the committee, which also includes four leading industrialists and seven persons active in other educational areas.

Bliss Park: 767 Reservations

SACRAMENTO – D.L. Bliss Park was listed as having sold 767 reservations and 168 campsites this year.

The park had 30 per cent of its campsites reserved in July and 39 per cent have already been reserved for August.

The statistics were released by the State Resources Agency Department of Parks and Recreation.

Roadside Interviews: They Just Take 60 Seconds And Do The Job

Roadside interviews on state highways leading out of Sacramento are continuing, according to state highway officials, with motorists giving researchers exceptional cooperation.

Travelers are detained on the average of only 60 seconds supplying such information as place of residence, origin and destination of the trip.

Squads of trained interviewers began a week ago gathering data for a major transportation study undertaken by Sacramento City and County, the Sacramento Regional Planning Commission and the Division of Highways.

Information from both roadside and in-home interviews will form part of a comprehensive survey inventory of transportation in the Sacramento area.

This will be used to study present travel patterns, predict future needs and make determinations for mass transit facilities. Other uses of the data will be study of land development, population trends, analysis of economic and employment findings.

A 2200-square-mile area around Sacramento bounded by Galt, Placerville, Lincoln and Woodland is included in the study.

Pleasure Funds Via Taxes Proposed At Tahoe City

TAHOE CITY — The Tahoe City Public Utility District will seek opinions of property owners as to what extent the district should get involved in recreation.

The Tahoe City Adult Recreation League and Recreation Association appealed to the district to become involved with recreation even to the extent of levying taxes.

District directors favored the proposal so long as taxation was clearly favored by the people. Director Herbert Beck disagreed with other directors and said that all taxpayers should be involved in the proposal rather than only residents in the district.

Mailings to all property owners will include information on what recreation may be involved and possible amounts of the tax rate.

The two local groups hope to get control of 64 acres of Bureau of Reclamation land on which they could start the recreation development with a baseball field.

Sierra Pacific Power Co. has offered to build a baseball field in exchange for its Fletcher Field property now leased to the local recreation association. The lease has about eight years to run but the power company would like to develop it in real estate.

District directors learned that it may be five years before legal questions involving the 64 acres and the Truckee Carson Irrigation District are answered and it would be at least this long before local control of the 64 acres could become possible.

In another development, directors learned that the Sierra Pacific Power Co. proposes to break its lease with the recreation association and place $100,000 in escrow for construction of the baseball field.

Bill Bechdolt of the recreation association suggested the PUD try to lease a portion of the 64 acres so it would establish use on the property and build what facilities it could. This, presumably, would include the baseball field as the first step paid for by the power company.

If a lease were not possible on a portion of the acreage, the PUD could plan to purchase its own land.

A major consideration, other representatives of the local groups said, is that the PUD is the only legal entity here which can own local recreation lands and can levy necessary taxes and accept federal and state grants.

The PUD has been operating the Tahoe City Public Beach for several years on a tax rate of 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Bond Election Slated For Utility District

TAHOE CITY — Directors of the Tahoe City Public Utility District have decided to ask for $2 million in a general obligation bond authorization election to be scheduled for late September or early October.

Combined with federal grants and California loan money, the sale of the bonds is sought by the district officials to pay for construction of trunk sewer lines to Sugar Pine Point State Park on the west shore of Lake Tahoe in El Dorado County.

State loans and federal grants large enough could mean that the district would not have to sell as many bonds.

The mechanics of the bond election still have to be resolved. Problems arose when the annexation by Tahoe City of land in El Dorado County was taken to court.

Dist. Atty. Paul Chamberlain suggested dividing the election into three precincts of the present uncontested district, the new annexed area in Placer County and the new annexed area in El Dorado County.

Hearing Set For Policy On Water

EUREKA, California — Water Resources Control Board has Aug. 1 as the date for a public hearing on a proposed anti-degradation policy for all waters of the state.

The hearing will be in the auditorium of the resources building, 1416 Ninth St., Sacramento, at 10 a.m.

Kerry W. Mulligan, executive officer to the state board, stated the 18-member water quality advisory committee is being asked to meet with the board during the hearing in order that the board may obtain its recommendations.

The proposed anti-degradation policy declares that state waters whose existing quality is better than that established by water quality control policies as of the date such policies became effective "will be maintained at high quality unless it has been affirmatively demonstrated to the state that a change is justifiable as a result of necessary economic or social development and will not preclude present or anticipated use of such waters."

The policy declares that "any industrial, public or private project or development which would constitute a new source of pollution or an increased source of pollution will be required to meet discharge requirements of the degree necessary to protect high water quality."

Mulligan stated that the proposed policy is intended to meet an objection of the Secretary of the Interior to California's 32 water quality control policies for interstate waters adopted last year. The policies, adopted in compliance with the Federal Water Pollution Control Act and submitted to the secretary June 30, 1967, have not yet been approved as federal standards.

Stepped-Up Insurance Coverage?

With a new plan devised by The Hartford Insurance Group, a homeowner can get stepped-up insurance coverage to help offset the effect of the inflation spiral on the value of his home.

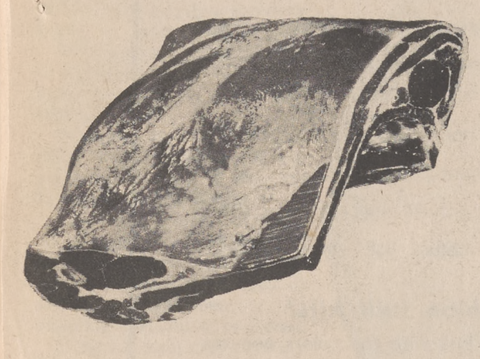

Called Inflation Guard, the optional feature automatically increases coverage one per cent every three months, or 12 per cent in a three-year policy term. An industry first, it is now available in 32 states.

Cost for the added 12 per cent coverage is about six per cent above the original premium for a $25,000 house.

The economic concept behind the new attachment is remarkably unsophisticated. The company found that construction costs, like nearly everything else, are rising about four per cent a year.

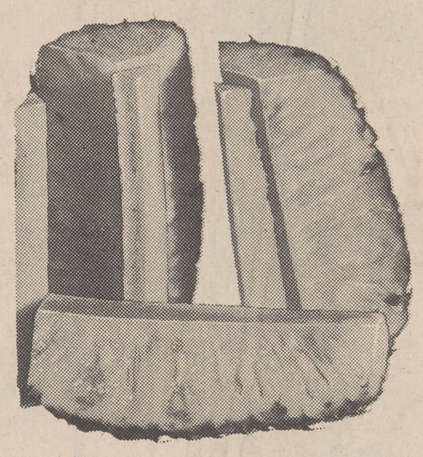

For example, a house built for $25,000 this year will be worth about $28,000 by 1971.

Until Inflation Guard was developed, the replacement value of this home would increase, but insurance coverage ordinarily would not.

Property Tax Assistance Claims Number 25,000

SACRAMENTO — More than 25,000 California Senior Citizens have already filed claims for property tax assistance under the recently enacted Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance law.

But, there are undoubtedly thousands of others who are not aware that they are eligible or who have not filed a claim with us, said Martin Huff, executive officer of the Franchise Tax Board, which is responsible for administration of the new law.

To qualify, claimants must be California residents over 65 years of age, must own their own home, have paid the property taxes for the current fiscal year, and have an income of less than $3,350.

"Our Senior Citizens have shown considerable ingenuity in presenting proof of their qualifications," said Huff, "especially when it comes to documenting age.

"One man presented a report card showing promotion from the fifth to the sixth grade in 1896. Of course, we accepted that.

"Another offered a 1916 Philadelphia elevator operator's license, complete with picture, which was also sufficient," Huff said.

The simplest form of proof of age is a Medicare card, and we are receiving thousands of copies of these, Huff said.

Common errors being made in filing the claims include the listing of monthly income instead of the annual income, failure to sign the claim form, and failure to enclose the documents to prove the claimant's age and payment of taxes.

Claim forms and information may be obtained by writing to Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance, P.O. Box 1588, Sacramento, Calif., or by contacting the nearest office of the Franchise Tax Board.

Claims must be filed before Aug. 31 and reimbursements will be made between July 1 and Nov. 30.

Does Your Car Need A Check-up?

With vacation auto trips coming up during summer season, the California State Automobile Association today offered the following "Bring 'Em Back Alive" suggestions to motorists to increase the safety of their cars.

Brakes are the most important safety device on a car and the CSAA says that one car in three has brakes that need attention. A complete inspection of the braking system should be made at least once a year.

It should include inspection of brake lining, wheel cylinders, brake lines and the master cylinder.

Potential brake trouble is often indicated when the car pulls to one side, or when the brakes chatter if applied.

The steering assembly is also an important safety item. If there is excessive play in the steering wheel, one inch or more, an adjustment of the steering mechanism is needed.

If the car steers hard or there is a shimmy in the steering wheel, tire inflation and wheel balance should be checked.

If these are in proper order, then wheel alignment should be checked.

Tires should be inspected often and this presents a problem. The only thorough way to check tires is when the car is up on the lube rack (short of removing each wheel from the car). With extended lubrication intervals on late-model cars, most of them are not up on the lube rack at 30-day intervals any more.

The CSAA suggests, therefore, that tires be inspected each time the oil is changed or the car is lubed. A careful inspection should be made for cuts, cracks, or bulges as well as for uneven wear.

Remember, most tire trouble occurs when the tire is worn and the tread is smooth or nearly smooth.

Exhaust system leaks, which may occur at the exhaust manifolds as well as in the muffler or tail pipe, are common. Have the system checked by a mechanic, since even a small amount of carbon monoxide gas can make the driver groggy and lead to an accident.

Lights are often overlooked as a safety device, but at night a stop light or turn signal is the only warning the driver behind you has that you are going to stop or turn. Have all the lights on your car checked regularly — once a month is not too often.

Overexposure To The Sun —Dangerous

Wrinkles and dry skin are an inevitable part of the aging process, but here in California where sun-seeking is a way of life, many persons hasten the process by overexposure to the sun.

As a result, they prematurely develop weathered skin, which is not only cosmetically unattractive but can be the forerunner of a health problem.

It is the sun's ultraviolet rays, when in contact with skin repeatedly and excessively, which causes damage.

Skin which has been damaged by these rays not only becomes dry and wrinkled but develops abnormal pigmentation and becomes thickened.

When scaley patches (actinic keratosis) appear on the face, scalp, or other exposed areas, these lesions should be treated by a doctor, since they are sometimes the forerunner of skin cancer.

If a single keratotic lesion is present, it can be removed chemically; when there is inflammation, it can be reduced by medication containing corticosteroids.

If lesions on the skin are suspected of being malignant, the physician orders a biopsy examination.

If the suspicion is confirmed, the malignancy may be treated by surgical excision, by radiation therapy, or by electrodessication — depending on the type of malignancy which is present.

Sometimes a patient will undergo chemosurgery, or what is popularly called "face peeling" to remove the superficial wrinkles caused by weathering.

This treatment involves the use of powerful chemicals which remove the top layers of skin and thus permit new skin to replace it.

THE FABULOUS
Coit Melon

California's Coit Ranch is world-famous for the quality of its cantaloupes. The flavor and sweetness of Coit melons is matchless.

Before any melon field is harvested at Coit Ranch, random sugar samples are taken from the fruit. Unless the sugar level is at least 18% higher than the state minimum standards, it isn't ready to be picked.

Here are truly vine-ripened melons. We proudly offer them for sale beginning this week.
